Application Deadline: May 1, 2022

INTRODUCTION

Bradley E. Johanson served as the sixth commanding officer of the USS STENNIS from May 5, 2006, until September 18, 2008. His retirement capped a distinguished career in the U.S. Navy that spanned more than 30 years. A hallmark of his leadership on the USS STENNIS was his care and concern not only for crew members but for their families as well. Capt. Johanson was a strong advocate of continuing education, establishing “Stennis University” onboard the ship and constantly encouraging crew members and their families to “Look Ahead” by gaining an education that would prepare them for future challenges and opportunities.

Soon after his retirement, Capt. Johanson was diagnosed with Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS). He remained an inspiration to his family and friends and all who served under his leadership throughout his valiant fight against this crippling disease. Capt. Johanson died on September 30, 2010, barely two years after concluding his command of the USS STENNIS.

This scholarship program, which supports the educational advancement of spouses and children of USS STENNIS crew members, was named to honor the life and legacy of Brad Johanson. His integrity, commitment to duty, perseverance through adversity, and compassionate leadership are public service qualities sought in those awarded scholarships through this program.
